

I have great pleasure in inviting delegates to the 29th IISSM Annual Global Conclave on “New Paradigms for Loss Prevention in Digital Era” to be held on 14th & 15th November 2019 at the Hotel Conrad, Bengaluru.

Security and Safety functions are increasingly becoming highly crucial and vulnerable to the management of businesses, industry and other commercial enterprises. In today's connected Digital World loss of data and privacy are both real and very expensive propositions. The IISSM Annual Conclaves use state of the art tools for learning, up-gradation and self renewal of the practicing security and safety professionals. All inputs are imparted only through the medium of panelists-participants discussions involving specially handpicked domain experts and key note speakers including foreign faculty. Over the years this professionally organised event has gained immense popularity among Safety, Security and Loss Prevention professionals from India and abroad.

The Conclave discussions have extensive coverage spanning conventional and contemporary themes including challenges of social media and data privacy, growth in Healthcare, Hospitality and Retail Sectors and Security/Safety imperatives in Smart Cities. Additionally the Conclave provides immense opportunities of meeting and interacting with professionals from all over India and from foreign countries in an informal and unstructured manner. My special appeal to the top decision makers of enterprises is to liberally spare their domain executives to participate in the event for enriching their knowledge and widening their horizon to face the ever changing complex challenges of the future.

My Dear IISSM Members and Stakeholders,

I welcome all the delegates and stakeholders to this year's Global Conclave being held in Bengaluru, the IT Capital of India.

Friends, the overall theme of this year's Global Conclave is “New Paradigms for Loss Prevention in Digital Era”.

Security and Safety are of paramount importance to peace and prosperity. However, good planning, regular monitoring and preparedness can certainly minimize the impact of any disaster and help in recovering in the minimum possible time.

For a secured business environment, electronic gadgets, digitized measures should have matching support of human skills and expertise. Drones are useful in keeping vigil over a premise from above. CCTV cameras are in use today. But there is and there will be no substitute for human intelligence.

Be it business or industry their security and safety cannot do without digital technology. The banking sector is vulnerable to fraudulent transactions and hacking of accounts. Theft or loss of data and loss of access to internet and other networks are the biggest threats we all face. Though we have taken safeguards against it, a lot more needs to be done in this field as losses can run into several crores of Rupees.

I am confident that these huge problems can and will be surmounted by introducing new and innovative ideas to the areas of security, safety, Loss Prevention and introducing advanced digital and other technologies to help our efforts to save lives and protect vital assets. In this light I hope that your deliberations during this conclave will add to our knowledge base in these areas and help formulate new strategies that will be more effective and more efficient.

Wishing success to the conclave,

R K SINHA
(Member of Parliament, Rajya Sabha)
Executive Chairman, IISSM
